

Help us promote women's agency in Central America

Disseminating evidence. J-PAL makes available rigorous evidence as well as technical assistance on how policies and programs can enhance women's agency. Help us share this knowledge!

Creating research alliances. We can connect government organizations, NGOs, and private organizations with members of our academic network to develop and evaluate innovative solutions for the needs of the population. Tell us if you have or know of a program that could be evaluated.

Strengthening local capacities to generate and apply evidence. J-PAL offers opportunities to learn about social program evaluation, including online courses. Support local capacity building by funding scholarships for training programs.

Financing evaluations. J-PAL has identified areas for future research needed to improve understanding of women's agency. Help us finance research on interventions that directly impact the empowerment of women in topics understudied in the region.